Editor Lookup

Editor Lookup

"From a scientist to a fellow scientist."

Welcome to Editor Lookup, a free efficient search tool to help find scientific professionals for academic tasks, such as editors and reviewers for scientific manuscripts!

Using Editor Lookup is easy:

- Enter the names of the persons you are considering in the Authors field, on separate lines
- In the Keywords field, enter relevant keywords, also on separate lines
- The Keywords field supports the same field-specific searches as Entrez PubMed (for example, "[title]")
- The tool will then form a fully-sortable table, where you can see how many PubMed hits each candidate has with each keyword.

The screenshot shows the PubMed Commons website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'NCBI Resources' and 'How To' menus, and a 'Sign in to NCBI' link. Below this is the 'PubMed.gov' logo and a search bar. The main content area features the 'COMMONS' logo and the tagline 'A forum for scientific discourse'. There are several colorful icons representing different features, including a 'Pilot' icon. A section titled 'PubMed Commons Blog' contains a post from May 6, 2015, about signposts from research to resources. Below this, there are links for 'Get Started', 'Guidelines', 'FAQ', and 'Journal Clubs'. A 'Top comments now' section highlights a comment on a paper about chlorogenic acid and coffee. On the right, there is a 'Follow us' section with a Twitter icon and a 'What people are reading' section with trending articles.

PubMed Commons to be Discontinued

★★★★☆ ⓘ 13 Votes

PubMed Commons has been a valuable experiment in supporting discussion of published scientific literature. The service was first introduced as a pilot project in the fall of 2013 and was reviewed in 2015. Despite low levels of use at that time, NIH decided to extend the effort for another year or two in hopes that participation would increase. Unfortunately, usage has remained minimal, with comments submitted on only 6,000 of the 28 million articles indexed in PubMed.

The taste of cutlery: how the taste of food is affected by the weight, size, shape, and colour of the cutlery used to eat it

Vanessa Harrar* and Charles Spence

Abstract

Background: Recent evidence has shown that changing the plateware can affect the perceived taste and flavour of food, but very little is known about visual and proprioceptive influences of cutlery on the response of consumers to the food sampled from it. In the present study, we report three experiments designed to investigate whether food tastes different when the visual and tactile properties of the plastic cutlery from which it is sampled are altered. We independently varied the weight, size, colour, and shape of cutlery. We assessed the impact of changing the sensory properties of the cutlery on participants' ratings of the sweetness, saltiness, perceived value,

About

Writefull is an app that gives feedback on your writing by checking your text against databases of correct language.

You can use Writefull in any writing tool - from MS Word to Gmail. Simply select a piece of text, hit the short-key to activate Writefull, and choose one of its many options:

Check how often your selected text is found in the language database, and see how it is used in context.

Hear how your text is pronounced.

Translate from any language into English.

Enter two chunks and compare how often they are found in the database. Also see how they are used in context.

Find out which words are used most often in a gap in your selected text.

See which synonyms of a given word are used most often in your selected text.

The screenshot shows the LyX software interface. The window title is "LyX: ~\Documents\newfile2.lyx (changed)". The menu bar includes "File", "Edit", "View", "Insert", "Navigate", "Document", "Tools", and "Help". The toolbar contains various icons for file operations, editing, and mathematical symbols. The main document area displays the following text and formulas:

The traffic intensity in an $M/M/s$ system is $\rho = l/(sm)$. As the intensity of traffic approaches one, the mean queue length becomes unbounded. When $l < sm$,

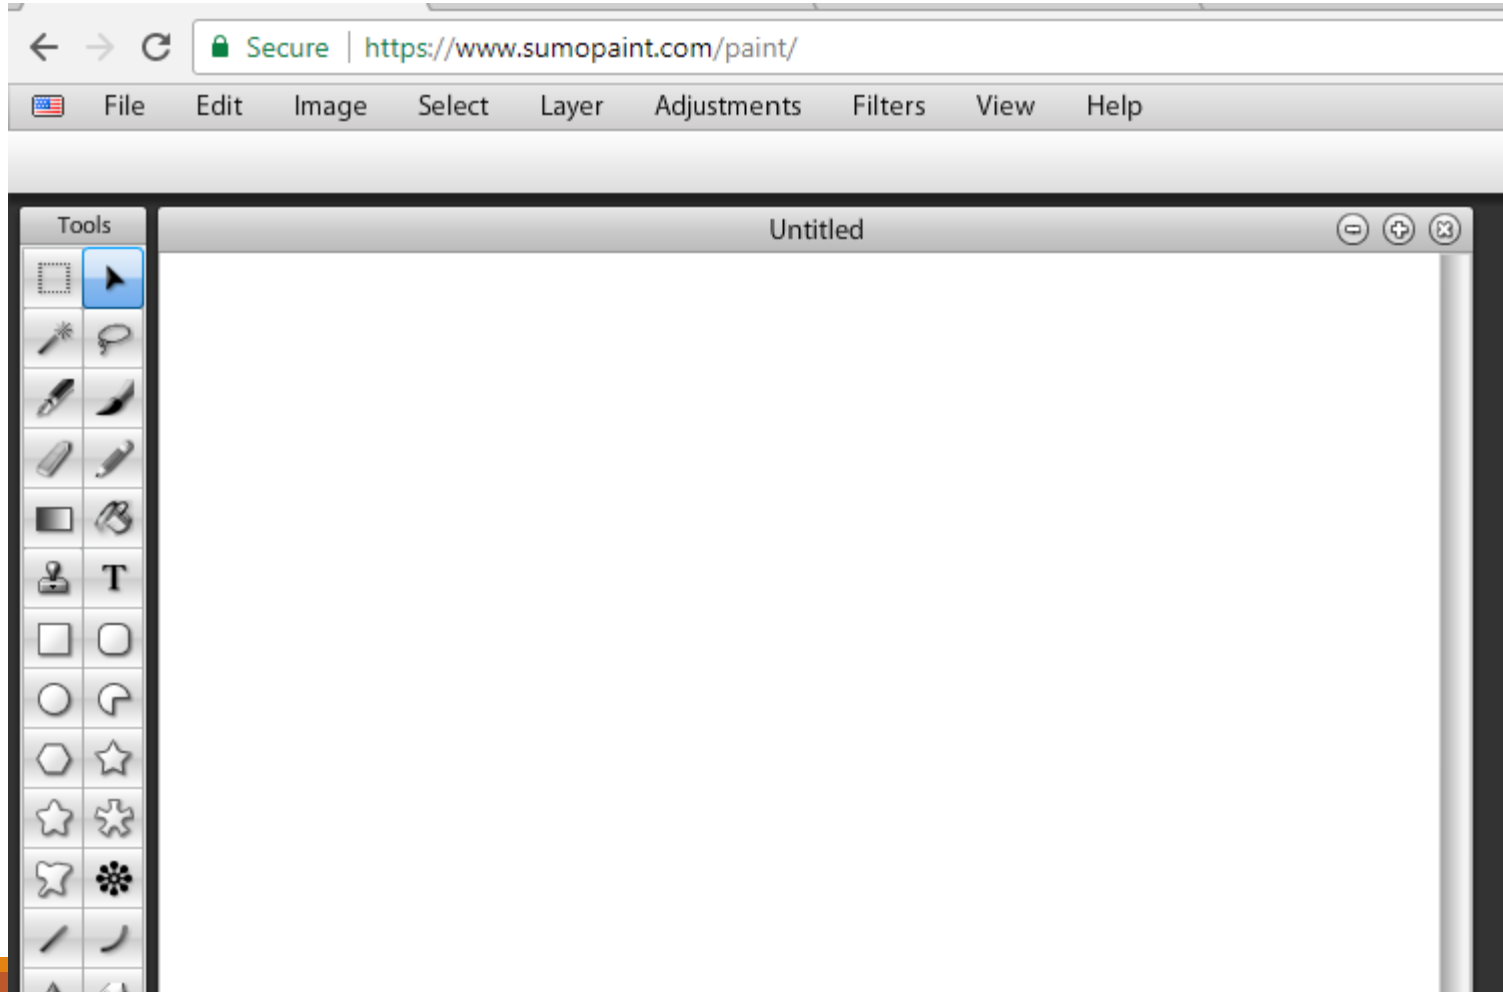

$$\pi_0 = \left\{ \sum_{j=0}^{s-1} \left(\frac{l}{m}\right)^j + \frac{(l/m)^s}{s!(1-l/sm)} \right\}^{-1}$$

The bottom toolbar includes mathematical symbols like π , \sum , \int , and α . The font is set to "Default".

The image shows a screenshot of the PlagScan website homepage. At the top, there is a browser address bar with the URL "www.plagscan.com" and a search bar containing "customize easychair". The navigation menu includes links for "Info on Plagiarism Checking", "For Education", "For Business", "Plans & Products", and "Help & Resources", along with a language selector set to "English". A "Log in" and "Sign up" button is located in the top right corner. The main content area features the PlagScan logo and the headline "Legal Compliance and Professionalism High-tech made in Germany". Below this, a sub-headline reads "We safeguard copyrights and act in accordance to the Federal Data Protection Act. Use our award-winning algorithm for your plagiarism check." A prominent "FREE TRIAL" button is positioned at the bottom left. The background of the main content area is a stylized graphic of a circuit board with various icons, including a magnifying glass, a shield with a paragraph symbol (§), and a "#1" ranking badge.
